VERSATILE PET GEL IS FIVE PRODUCTS WRAPPED INTO ONE

BY BOYD HARRELL, DVM

Looking for a premium product that can protect and promote your pet's health both externally and orally? Multi-use Pet Gel has got you covered. This odorless and tasteless gel is formulated with the exclusive ingredient Oxygene® to cleanse and deodorize, as well as aloe to provide soothing relief. It's safe and effective on open wounds and can also be used to promote healthy gums and fresh breath.

Top 5 reasons every pet owner needs Oxyfresh Pet Gel

1. You love to cuddle, but hate bad breath

As much as we adore our pets, most of us abruptly turn our heads when our furry friend emanates a big cloud of dragon-like doggie breath as they happily greet us. Fortunately, we can take the fire out of the dragon breath by rubbing Oxyfresh Pet Gel along the margin of our pet's gums. In minutes, our odor-neutralizing ingredient Oxygene® works its magic to freshen your pet's breath so you can snuggle to your heart's content.

2. Preventing dental disease can extend your pet's life

Doggie breath can be more than just an annoyance. Much more. It is often a sign of periodontal disease, the most common dental disease. An alarming 80 percent of dogs and 70 percent of cats over age three suffer from periodontal disease. Called the "Silent Killer of Pets," it can cause bacteria to enter the bloodstream and infect the heart, liver and kidneys — shortening your pet's life by up to five years! Pet Gel's Oxygene® destroys bacteria in the mouth, helping to reduce the formation of plaque and tartar that can lead to periodontal disease.

3. Sore gums can be a real drag for your pet

Pets get sore gums just like we do. We want to give them relief but there just aren't many products available that are safe enough to use in a pet's mouth. These include products with dyes, unsafe chemicals and other ingredients that might prove to be toxic over time. Whether the gum irritation is from cutting baby teeth, an injury, periodontal disease, inflammation, or some other gum condition, Pet Gel safely delivers soothing relief with a powerful combination of aloe vera and chamomile.

4. Nothing's better for skin irritations

In our pets, "hot spots" are localized moist skin irritations seen primarily during the warm moist months. These cause intense itching and discomfort. Pets with wrinkly skin — like on the faces of bull dogs and pugs — are especially prone to these hot spots in deep, hidden folds of skin. This is also common around the base of the tail. Pet Gel soothes and helps dry these problem areas while dramatically improving your pet's comfort level.

5. You never know what your pet will get into

Pet Gel is an extremely handy general purpose first aid cream that can also be used externally. You can use it for minor cuts, scratches, insect bites, minor burns, sunburns, abrasions, sore feet and more. It gives relief while promoting fast healing. Many ointments and creams made for human skin lack the safety factor of Pet Gel. These can be toxic if swallowed and have also been known to cause problems ranging from digestive upset to major organ failure. Pet Gel is completely safe and formulated to soothe, cleanse and deodorize.

Closing Thoughts

Oxyfresh Pet Gel is in a class by itself. No other product is as versatile. That's what makes it an essential product for every pet owner to have on hand. Great value, tons of uses, long shelf life, consistent results. Pet Gel has it all.
